Mary O’Grady

Mary O’Grady is an international health and development consultant based in Johannesburg. She has more than 20 years of experience working on HIV/AIDS and other health, gender, human rights, and international environmental programmes and policies in 18 African countries, Asia and the Pacific, Eastern Europe, and Latin America. She has led 11 national or international health and development programme evaluations for the UK Department for International Development (DFID), UNAIDS, the US Agency for International Development (USAID), and Oxfam, and she also has consulted to the Swedish International Development Cooperation Agency (SIDA), UNDP, UNICEF, World Food Programme (WFP), and the Wits Health Consortium, among others. She received her MSc Medicine, Bioethics and Health Law degree from Wits in 2009.