Humiliating initiation practices prohibited at Wits

First year students will participate in a week-long orientation programme to help ease the transition into university. The programme includes a range of events to help students adjust to their academic and social environment. These events and activities are informative and entertaining and should not impair one’s dignity.

Wits University seeks to build an inclusive environment free of discrimination based on gender, race, religion and sexual orientation.

Like other South African public higher education institutions, Wits is strongly opposed to the extreme nature of some initiation practices that go beyond preparing students to settle into a new environment. We therefore condemn any form of initiation practice that is humiliating, intimidating or discriminatory.

The University condemns acts of harassment (sexual or otherwise) including the bullying, belittling, embarrassing, frightening or humiliation of other persons, and all other forms of demeaning behaviour, including shouting or screaming at new students. Under no circumstances should students be subjected to potentially dangerous activities like being forced to consume alcohol or other substances.

The University will take swift action against any individual or groups found not to be honouring the spirit of respect that should be inherent in all orientation programmes and activities.

Any student who feels victimised, harassed or abused during and beyond the orientation period is urged to report the matter to any member of staff or directly to me (in confidence if required) via Jerome.September@wits.ac.za or via my office on the ground floor of Solomon Mahlangu House, Braamfontein Campus East.

The Centre for Learning, Teaching and Development (CLTD) supports the professional development of Wits academic staff by working collaboratively with departments and individuals at all career stages.

We offer:
- Blended learning and teaching support
- Academic professional learning programmes
- Student academic support
- Writing and learning
- Course evaluation services

Computer Literacy Skills for Students 2019 is an initiative offered by CLTD as part of developing student ambassadors with the necessary skills needed to facilitate the digital literacies of first year students transitioning from high school into the University.

Computer Literacy skills focus on the basic ICT skills a student needs to successfully function in an academic environment. Students often enter the higher education environment with a broad set of digital skills however, even those who are proficient in using technological tools, are not necessarily proficient in using ICT skills for academic purposes.

This programme is aimed at preparing students for success in academia and the workforce through technology usage. It is designed to help students demonstrate proficiency through the correct use of computer technology e.g. ability to perform tasks using email, internet resources for research, word processor for academic assignments, spreadsheet, presentation software, plagiarism detection software and the university Learning Management System (LMS).

It is intended to equip students with these competencies through the completion of approved course work, assignments, tests and assessments. A standard assessment is used to determine the computer literacy skills students must achieve to participate in their learning programmes.
AIM

To help students develop computer skills needed to succeed in both academia and the world of work. A student completing this program will be able to proficiently use available Microsoft application software programs. Students who are successful in this program are able to access, manage, integrate, evaluate, create and communicate information in the 21st century learning environment.

The Computer Literacy Programme is offered as a part of the First Year Experience Programme. For more information on these programmes, feel free to visit your FYE Calendar!!!

RESIDENCE LIFE

Living and Learning at Wits Residences

The Campus Housing and Residence Life programme has more than 6300 students in its 17 residences offering a wide range of accommodation, from fully catered undergraduate halls with communal facilities, to self-catered units for senior undergraduate and postgraduates students.

Communal living requires a high degree of broad-mindedness and cooperation, as well consideration for the rights of others. There are rules regarding visiting hours in residences, as well as permissible noise levels at specific times of the day. The residence rules are displayed in all residences.

The majority of first year students are mainly placed in catering residences, which have dining halls that are located nearer to each of the undergraduate residences. Students can book any meals at any of the six dining halls to suit their academic, personal or social schedules.

In each residence, staff members include the Residence Cluster Manager and Residence Warden, who both reside on campus or on the residences premises. The Residence Cluster Manager oversees all operational matters across a cluster of residences. The Residence Warden provides after-hour supervision in a residence, and he/she is supported by the House Committee of that particular residence.

The majority of first year undergraduate students are usually placed in double rooms in residences according to their various fields of study.

“Your health is our concern”

Campus Health & Wellness Centre (CHWC) is a primary health care facility on campus which serves both staff and students. With a vested commitment in bringing quality health care within your reach, we strive to ensure that students have opportunities to succeed in their academic, co-curricular, extra-curricular, social and moral endeavours.

Our vision is to strive for excellence in the delivery of health care services on campus thus contributing to the optimal health and wellbeing of the Wits community.

The health care services provided are cost-effective, convenient, accessible and comprehensive. Our goal is to assist the individual, sick or well in the performance of those activities contributing to health or its recovery such that holistic development of the individual is enhanced.

Services on offer:
- Free voluntary counselling and HIV testing is offered and all students are encouraged to have their HIV status determined in a supportive and caring environment.
- Reproductive health issues are addressed in a caring and non-judgmental manner.
- Quality care is ensured in the management of minor illnesses, whereby medication is provided at a nominal fee.
- Prevention is better than cure; ask our professional staff about the range of vaccines that are available.
Extra time applications for examinations

Value added services include the assessments for extra-time requests during examinations. If you have a physical, psychological problem that is likely to affect your academic performance, it will be to your advantage to consult CHWC and the Disability Unit early in the year. Extra time is a privilege extended to a student with a proven disability that may prevent completion of the examination in the allotted time. Applications for extra-time must be lodged before the last working day in April.

- Late applications will only be considered for acute injuries that may have a negative outcome in the writing ability within a specified time period.

Payment of Services
- Students staying at Wits residences pay a capitation fee at the beginning of the year, and R20.00 for consultation with a PHC nurse clinician, and day students R50.00.
- Students who are covered by a Medical Aid are encouraged to utilise the services of a private medical practitioner. Medical aid rates are charged.

Operating Hours
Monday - Friday 08:00 - 16:30

- A satellite health care service is available on the Wits Education Campus in Parktown
- It is located in the Highfield House close to the residence dining hall. Operations are daily from 08:30 to 16:00
- The Clinic is closed over weekends and during public holidays
- To book an appointment and/or to report emergencies on campus, kindly call 717-9113/9111 for assistance during office hours. After hours, for life threatening emergencies on campus, call Protection Services at 717- 4444/2222/6666, if this occurs at a university residence please report to the Hall Co-ordinator

Drama for Life, based at the Wits School of Arts, is dedicated to arts for social transformation and healing. Drama for Life is internationally recognised as the University’s unique postgraduate academic, research and community engagement department that brings together the disciplines of Applied Drama/Theatre, Performance Ethnography, Performance as Research, Arts Education, Drama Therapy and Expressive Arts Therapies within the context of a critical reflexive praxis.

Our ethos is driven by three key questions:

- What does it mean to be human in the 21st century?
- How can we learn to be resilient, without compromising our humanity, as we engage with the enormous challenges of change in the 21st century?
- How can we effectively use the arts, without compromising its aesthetic power, to bring about meaningful, sustainable social transformation and healing?

Our unique programme of education creates interventions, performances, rituals and processes that skilfully and appropriately address social transformation and healing in a wide range of education, health and social contexts.

About Drama for Life Theatre Company

The Drama for Life Theatre Company is a professional performance intervention company, based and trained at Drama for Life, at Wits. The company is committed to creating Applied Drama and Theatre programmes, encompassing stylised performances and workshops. As part of the broader Wits University student support drive, Drama for Life has created and presented countless interventions, activations, discussions and performances among the Wits community. From the comic O-Week play, to the racy Sex Sports! on the Library Lawns, and even late night Lover+Another poetry and UNZIPPED theatre performances in Residences, Drama for Life’s work, led by the Theatre Company and students opens critical dialogue through fun and engaging mediums. Most importantly, the Drama for Life programme has also offered key training and support to multiple Wits student groups (CCDU peer-educators, CLM Pre-University Programme and Res Life teams) to assist in strengthening their service to and support of fellow students.

The secret to success though is getting the balance of all these choices just right. This comic orientation week play will be sure to give you all the tips, tools and tricks to make your first year a success!

Once you register as a student at Wits you automatically become an alumnus of the University and the University is known as your alma mater. As an alumnus you will be part of a global fraternity of Witsies.

Wits has produced over 160 000 graduates since its inception in 1922. These alumni play an extremely important role in the University. They are the products of the University and their success in their chosen careers is a reflection of the education they received at Wits. Alumni are also the only stakeholder group that have a lifelong interest in the success and reputation of the University as they rely on the value and prestige of a Wits qualification to enhance their future career prospects.

The Office of Alumni Relations is tasked with developing a mutually beneficial relationship with alumni, creating opportunities for alumni to continue playing an active role in the life of the University and for providing opportunities for alumni to meet and socialise with each other.

The alumni organisation is structured into profession-based alumni associations, a young alumni association for alumni aged 35 or younger, a founders group for alumni who graduated 40 years ago or longer, sports clubs, and national and international alumni chapters.

The Office of Alumni Relations is based in the Wits Club Complex at the Empire Road end of West Campus (Next to Olives and Plates).

The Faculty of Commerce, Law and Management boasts many support programmes which facilitate holistic academic and extra-curricular support. Apart from the academic programme, these are the following support programmes on offer:

STUDENTS AT RISK

Students at risk represent two groups:

- Students who have been readmitted through the Wits Readmission Committee (WRC).
- Students who (as indicated through their results in tests and other assessment tasks) are performing poorly and are therefore at risk of being excluded at year-end (see clause four for more information in this regard).

For students at risk, the CLM Faculty provides the Road To Success Programme. The various programmes cater for students who are struggling academically to help ensure they successfully pass the academic year.

The Academic Development Unit (ADU) is a student support unit aimed at identifying and preventing students from being at risk of academic failure. It can be found on the 3rd floor of the Chamber of Mines Building while the Student Support Centre is located on the Upper Ground Floor. The ADU is a close-knit group of individuals who, through combining their various gifts and talents, are passionate about assisting students in the Faculty to realise their full potential.

Given that our students begin their academic journeys from various starting points, one of its main roles is creating an integrated academic environment that is accessible to all, where all students, despite their various ethnic, religious, socio-economic, psycho-social and academic background can thrive and achieve their personal and academic goals and aspirations.

Students are supported with the aim of achieving their full academic potential in several ways, some of which include:
• Free support tutorials that run throughout the year for discipline-specific subjects that have historically proven challenging for students
• Free language development sessions to improve student reading and writing
• Advice and guidance on financial support for school fees and accommodation as well as putting students in touch with people that can help them
• Loaning out of textbooks and other academic resources
• Academic advice on personal matters or anything that might be interfering with your studies in terms of coping mechanisms i.e. time management, effective study skills, exam etiquette, industry prep- how to create balance between studies and social life on campus

REFERENCING: WHAT TO KNOW

Referencing
An important tool to utilise at university is the “acknowledgement of authors” and “writers”, by citing the information you provide in your school assignments. There are two main ways of referencing and citation styles, mainly in-text referencing (which is used when directly quoting or paraphrasing a source) and reference list/citation list, which is a list of all references and citations used in your academic document often placed in an alphabetic styled list at the end of your document.

There are many different referencing styles which you have to know, which include but are not limited to:

• APA (American Psychological Association) Styled Referencing
• MLA (Modern Language Association) Styled Referencing
• Oxford Styled Referencing
• Harvard Styled Referencing
• Chicago Styled Referencing

How to Reference
The Wits Library website provides a detailed and thorough explanation of referencing styles and how to properly reference and acknowledge a source.

FOLLOW THE LINK BELOW AND AID YOURSELF IN BETTERING YOUR REFERENCING SKILLS:

https://libguides.wits.ac.za/plagiarism_citation_and_referencing/ReferencingStyles

Acquaint yourself with the format as per your school’s academic requirements.

REMEMBER, NOT ACKNOWLEDGING OR PROPER REFERENCING A SOURCE OF INFORMATION IS ACADEMIC FRAUD!!!

Take note of any faculty/school programmes which will guide you and help you master your referencing skills!!!

Plagiarism

Plagiarism can be defined in four ways, namely:

• To steal and pass off another individual/sources idea as one’s own without acknowledgement of the source
• To use another’s production without crediting the source where it was retrieved from
• To commit literary fraud and theft
• To present one’s ideas and thoughts as new and original even though they have been taken from an existing source or person.
There are four types of plagiarism, mainly:

- Direct Plagiarism is the word-for-word transcription of a section of someone else’s work, without attribution; quotation marks or general citation and acknowledgement
- Self-Plagiarism is the use of one’s own previous work in another context without citing that it was used previously
- Mosaic Plagiarism occurs when an individual borrows phrases from a source without using quotation marks, or finds synonyms for the author’s language while keeping to the same general language structure and meaning as found in the original
- Accidental Plagiarism occurs when an individual neglects to cite their sources, or misquotes their sources, or unintentionally paraphrases a source by using similar words, groups of words, and/or sentence structure without attribution

The University makes use of anti-plagiarism detection software called Turnitin. This software tool checks submitted documents against its database and the content of other websites with the aim of identifying plagiarism.

ALL ASSIGNMENTS AND WRITTEN WORK ARE SUBMITTED THROUGH TURNITIN BY THE UNIVERSITY TO DETECT PLAGIARISM.

Check with your school and faculty what the acceptable plagiarism percentage is before formally submitting your assignments. Failure to do so can result in disciplinary hearings, suspension and expulsion from the University!

Financial Literacy

Financial Literacy is a tool all first years need to equip themselves with in order to properly manage their budgets and money at University. University life brings with it unexpected monetary costs and new expenses which you may not have thought of nor budgeted for initially. These include:

- Printing costs for assignments
- Groceries and toiletries
- Transport fare
- Social and entertainment costs
- Rent and utilities
- Clothing

There are various support programmes the University offers in ensuring that you are properly equipped to manage your finances, such as the First Year Experience Programme, amongst other faculties and school-related programmes.
